Curriculum

Required Courses

- Students with non-U.S. law degrees will be required to take four 2-credit courses open to only LL.M. students providing an introduction to various aspects of American law and legal practice:
  - Introduction to American Law
  - Lawyering Skills for LL.M. Students
  - Introduction to American Legal Practice
  - Professional Responsibility for LL.M. Students

Elective Courses

The LL.M. curriculum includes a broad range of classes from across the upper-division J.D. curriculum and students will be permitted to choose a program that best suits their individual needs and interests and integrated with the upper-division J.D. curriculum in your program.

Pre-Semester Orientation

Students are required to attend orientation and register for classes in a timely fashion prior to the beginning of Fall semester. This orientation will cover an introduction to the American legal system, what to expect in law school classes, basic studying techniques and academic skills.

Tuition

Tuition is an annual fee of $43,235. Limited partial scholarships may be available to qualified LL.M. applicants from less developed countries.

Application Requirements

Who Should Apply

Qualified applicants will have been awarded their home-country law degree prior to matriculation in the program and must demonstrate English language fluency sufficient to engage in the rigorous study of American law.

English Proficiency Requirement

Students in our graduate degree programs must have a high level of English proficiency in reading, writing, speaking, and listening. Students whose native languages are not English (IELTS or TOEFL) are encouraged to take the test. The English test must be taken before January 15, and must be sent directly from testing institutions to the UC Irvine School of Law. If an applicant has taken multiple tests, photocopies of all results must be submitted with the application.

If you are a citizen or national of a country where English is an official language, you may be eligible for a waiver of the English test.

LL.M. Program at UCI Law

The Master of Laws (LL.M.) degree program at the University of California, Irvine School of Law offers a first-rate legal education to lawyers, judges, government officials and others wishing to become educated about the legal system and practice of law in the United States. We offer a general LL.M. program that can be tailored to each individual's interests, thus uniquely equipping students with the knowledge and skills to excel in today's global legal community, whatever their personal and professional goals may be.

The program is a one-year, full-time, 24-credit course of study in advanced legal topics, designed primarily for lawyers trained outside of the United States. Students are required to take four courses: Introduction to American Law, Lawyering Skills for LL.M. Students, Introduction to American Legal Practice and Professional Responsibility for LL.M. Students. For the remainder of their coursework, students select from a broad range of courses across the upper-level J.D. curriculum. Dedicated staff and faculty are available to assist students in planning their course of study and, if desired, ensuring that students' coursework meets the eligibility requirements of the California, New York, or other state bars.

Who Should Apply

Qualified applicants will have been awarded their home-country law degree prior to matriculation in the program and must demonstrate English language fluency sufficient to engage in the rigorous study of American law.

English Proficiency Requirement

Students in our graduate degree programs must have a high level of English proficiency in reading, writing, speaking, and listening. The TOEFL and IELTS are accepted tests. The required minimum scores are 100 iBT (TOEFL) or 7.0 (IELTS). The English test must be taken before January 31, and must be sent directly from testing institutions to the UC Irvine School of Law. If an applicant has taken multiple tests, photocopies of all results must be submitted with the application. An interview via Skype or in-person (if in California) may be scheduled following submission of formal application. Applicants who are residents of Australia, Canada (other than Quebec), New Zealand, Ireland, the United Kingdom, or the United States AND (ii) who have completed a rigorous full-time program of at least three years of secondary education in one of these countries are not required to submit English test scores.

Curriculum

Pre-Semester Orientation

Students are required to attend an intensive and comprehensive orientation in the week before the fall semester. This orientation will cover an introduction to the American legal system, what to expect in law school classes, basic study techniques and academic rules. It will also provide an opportunity for students to meet with faculty and student organizations.

Elective Courses

The LL.M. curriculum includes a broad range of courses across the upper division (J.D. curriculum) and will be tailored to permit a program that best suits each individual's needs and interests and integrated with the upper division (J.D. courses) in all quarters.

Tuition

Tuition is an annual fee of $55,233.50. Limited partial scholarships may be available to qualified LL.M. applicants from less developed countries.

Why Pursue an LL.M at UCI Law?
World-Class Faculty: Classes at UCI Law are taught by a brilliant group of dedicated and welcoming faculty. Our world-class faculty are extraordinary scholars. A recent study ranked their scholarly impact as No. 6 in the U.S. behind only Yale, Harvard, University of Chicago, New York University and Stanford. Equally important, they are also superb teachers and devoted mentors. This unbeatable combination makes UCI Law a unique, dynamic and diverse intellectual community in which to learn and grow. Our faculty and students are from many different countries, and this academic incubator has led to some of the world’s greatest legal minds.

Small Class Sizes: Our student-faculty ratio is among the best in the country for J.D. students at 7:1 and the average number of students in an upper-level class is 11 – this enables students to have more individual time with our outstanding faculty. We combine the best of a small, collegial and supportive environment with a large and renowned research institution.

Learning by Doing: Experiential learning is the core of our curriculum. We teach our students how to turn theory into practice and learn by doing, essential in developing practice-ready skills for lawyers. Public service is also at the very center of UCI Law’s mission. Our programs provide students the opportunity and training to use their legal education to improve society.

Southern California Location: Our prime location in central Orange County, California – one hour south of Los Angeles and one hour north of San Diego – makes UCI highly attractive place to spend a year studying law. Located about 3 miles from the beach, the campus is situated in Irvine, California, which consistently ranks among the safest cities in the U.S. Among Irvine’s many benefits is its pleasant year-round climate and easy access to major cultural, entertainment and outdoor attractions. In addition, Southern California is a vast, highly desirable and sophisticated metropolitan area to prestigious international law firms, regional firms, and government public interest organizations. Orange County boasts a large and diverse economy home to some of the world’s largest companies as well as entrepreneurial small startups. The climate offers education in a myriad of sectors, including real estate, high technology, international trade, health care and life sciences.

Vibrant and Robust: Individually and collectively, the faculty, staff, students, alumni and friends of the Law School have made UCI a highly active place to learn in teaching, scholarship and public service. UCI Law had the highest ever debut ranking in U.S. News & World Report, and now is ranked No. 28 overall, No. 15 for Clinical Training, No. 27 in legal Writing, No. 23 in Intellectual Property Law and Top 12 in Student Diversity. We continue to strive for greater levels of excellence in every way, every day... won’t you join us?
